

Natural Gas-to-Gasoline Technology Is Here Now

The Coming Boom

SHELL GAS-TO-LIQUIDS PLANT IN QATAR — Revolutionary technology, which converts natural gas to synthetic gasoline and can be used in automobiles without any special devices, is used in this Shell plant in Qatar and may be coming to South Louisiana.

South Louisiana Could Be Key to Changing World Oil Dependence

Woody Jenkins Editor, Capital City News

BATON ROUGE — Revolutionary technology, which allows natural gas to be converted to synthetic gasoline that can be used in any ordinary automobile without a conversion kit, is poised to come to South Louisiana in a big way. If it does, the future of the state and, for that matter, the world could change for generations.

This technology, combined with Louisiana's massive reserves of natural gas, could completely end America's dependence on oil imported from the Middle East, Venezuela, and other OPEC countries.

Although public officials are mum, there is little doubt that a site in St. James Parish is being considered for a massive GTL (gas-to-liquids) plant that would make Louisiana central to how the world gets its energy.

The technology is no theory. Shell Oil currently operates the See CONVERTING on Page 3

CATS in Disarray After Disclosure

Government-Run Bus Company Says It Can't Keep Its Election Promises

BATON ROUGE — In court testimony and in interviews with Baton Rouge area media, representatives of CATS (Capital Area Transit System) revealed this week that they cannot keep the promises they made to voters prior to an April 21 referendum that approved a major property tax increase in Baton Rouge. The tax is being challenged in court by local businessman Milton Graugnard.

District Judge Todd Hernandez said Monday that he will rule within 10 days on whether Graugnard's suit can go forward.

CATS, a government-owned bus company, had expenses of $12 million a year, revenues of $10 million, and a $2 million deficit at the time they asked for an $18 million-a-year tax increase. But their proposed $30 million budget has collapsed, CATS

How Romney's Popular Vote in Louisiana Will Affect Election

BATON ROUGE — State Republican chairman Roger Villere encouraged Louisianians to take the time and trouble to vote on Nov. 6, even though Louisiana is not considered a swing state in the Presidential election.

Villere said, "We all have a right to vote but also a duty to vote. So many Americans have fought and died so that we can have this right, and we have an obligation to do our duty by being informed and voting."

Villere said Gov. Romney hopes to win a majority of the popular vote, as well as a majority of the Electoral College. "Louisiana's popular vote will

CAMPAGNING FOR GOP CANDIDATES — Retired City Judge Darrell White and his youngest daughter, Juliana, were among those who gathered at parish Republican headquarters, 7047 Jefferson Hwy., Suite B, last Saturday to help campaign for Mitt Romney for President and Mike Walker for Mayor-President. Volunteers report to headquarters at 9 a.m. every Saturday to work for their candidates.

2012: A Year of Decision

'The Coming Boom' Depends on Nov. 6

While Nation Goes To Polls, Louisiana Will Hold Its Breath

Woody Jenkins
Editor, Capital City News

BATON ROUGE — The headline on Page 1 describes the likelihood of an economic boom coming to South Louisiana. But there is a problem. The announcement of this massive GTL plant, which would employ 8,000 to 12,000 people, represent an investment of $5 to $10 billion, and alter the relationship between the United States and the Middle East probably won't come until after Nov. 6. Like countless other major commercial, manufacturing, and industrial projects in this country, it is dependent on what happens in the election for President of the United States.

Woody Jenkins

People who control the capital are waiting to see what direction this country of ours is headed. They are wondering if this is still a safe place to invest.

With a radical, anti-business President in the White House, our economy is on pause.

In Louisiana, the Presidential election should be a landslide for Gov. Mitt Romney. But some of the "swing" states are up in the air. So we in Louisiana have to wait with baited breath to see what happens in the election.

We know that Obama is hostile to energy development — unless it involves idiotic "green" technology that puts billions of taxpayer dollars into the pockets of his political supporters.

He's against oil, against natural gas, against coal, and against nuclear. He's done everything he can to stop offshore drilling and drilling in the Arctic. As a result, our energy production on federal lands is down.

But here in Louisiana, we have a reservoir of natural gas that can supply America's energy needs for generations to come.

We just have to have a government in Washington that allows us to fully develop it.

Now, with the advent of new technology that allows natural gas to be converted to clean-burning synthetic gasoline, Louisiana could have the opportunity to control its own destiny.

Low prices of natural gas mean that it is economical to produce synthetic gasoline and completely end our reliance on foreign imported oil. The consequences of this change in the dynamics of energy production are difficult to fully comprehend.

But it means that we will no longer have to send billions of our dollars to foreign dictators who use the money to enslave their people and build weapons that threaten us. It means that the flow of dollars out of this country, which is so damaging to our economy, can end.

It could mean a new wave of prosperity for Louisiana and for our nation which would allow us to build a stronger, more secure life for our children and grandchildren.

What happens Nov. 6 is all-important to Louisiana, America, and each one of us.

contribute to his overall popular vote totals. We know that if the election is close and we win a majority in the Electoral College but not a majority of the popular vote, some will use that to try to undermine the legitimacy of Gov. Romney's election. We don't want a close election. We want to have a strong majority of both the popular and Electoral College votes. The point is, it is very important that Gov. Romney's supporters go to the polls and vote in Louisiana."

"In addition to that, we have many important races on the Nov. 6 ballot, such as the election of Mike Walker as Mayor-President in East Baton Rouge Parish. Every vote will be important on Nov. 6, and I want to encourage every citizen to vote. Also, please remember that early voting is Oct. 23 to 30."

Massive GTL Facility Coming to St. James Parish? Converting Natural Gas to Gasoline

Pearl GTL plant in Qatar, and there are four other GTL plants in the world, but none in the United States.

The revolutionary aspect of GTL technology is that the synthetic fuels created can be used in any ordinary gasoline-powered automobile without spending a penny on conversion. The driver will simply pull in to his regular gas station and fill up his tank. GTL technology is also used to produce other fuels, such as diesel.

One source said a new GTL facility in St. James Parish could represent an investment of $5 to $10 billion and employ 8,000 full-time employees.

More importantly, a major GTL facility in Louisiana could be the beginning of the end of America's reliance on foreign oil. Experts say that within eight to 10 years, GTL technology could make the U.S. completely energy independent.

While GTL technology works, three factors are coming together to make it almost unstoppable — the high price of imported oil, the low price of natural gas, and the unprecedented supply of natural gas in the United States, especially in Louisiana. The U. S. now has more than a 100-year supply of natural gas, which is likely to keep prices low for the foreseeable future.

Scott Angelle, former Louisiana Secretary of Natural Resources and now a candidate for Public Service Commission, told a crowd of supporters Tuesday that GTL technology becomes practical when the disparity between the price of oil and price of natural gas is at least SHELL OIL's Pearl plant in Qatar produces gasoline from natural gas.

Gas-to-Liquids Technology Plant in Louisiana

- Natural gas is converted to a liquid, such as synthetic gasoline, which can be used in any ordinary vehicle
- Plant in St. James Parish employing 8,000-12,000
- Use Louisiana natural gas, instead of imported oil, thus reducing and eventually eliminating need for imported oil

15 to 1. He said it is currently 23 to 1, which makes GTL very cost effective.

In recent months, public officials and economic development spokesmen in Ascension and St. James parishes have said something really big is coming to their area, in addition to the Nucor steel mill, but they have refused to say what it is.

To some degree, the project is hanging on the outcome of the

Nov. 6 election, but one contractor who has been approached numerous times by the owner of the project said the election of Republican Mitt Romney will hasten the project but that under Democrat Barack Obama the project could have rough sailing.

Writing in TheHayride.com, Scott McKay said, "The word is Shell is going to build a new GTL facility, on par with the size of Pearl, in America so as to take advantage of the more localized demand. And the word is within three to six months, Shell expects to announce a decision on a site somewhere on the Gulf Coast. And Louisiana, with its plentiful supplies of 'dry gas' coming out of the Haynesville Shale and its world-class natural gas infrastructure, could very well win out as the domicile for the facility. Within 18 months of the site selection, Shell expects to finalize its construction plans, and it's expected that four years later a GTL facility which employs some 10,000-12,000 permanent workers will go on line...It will take in some 1.3 billion cubic feet of natural gas per day, and that could be enough to move the price of natural gas upward. Which is good news for landowners in places like the Haynesville Shale, who are disappointed to see wells shut in thanks to the current poor prices for gas."

If these reports are correct, Louisiana could be the center of a long-running boom — perhaps the greatest in its history.

The owner of a multi-billion-dollar GTL plant will need everything imaginable from skilled employees to suppliers and contractors of every description, thereby creating enormous economic opportunities.

CATS' Promises Won't Be Met

officials confirmed. The bus system will now get only $23 million a year, still about double its previous budget.

But that won't be enough to do all that was promised, according to reports.

CATS officials said one of the biggest blows is the loss of $3 million in City-Parish funds but one Metro councilman asked why the Council would put $3 million into an agency that has doubled its budget.

Among the promises that won't be met are the following:

- Six of eight proposed express routes to malls, universities, and other points won't be implemented.

- Wait times won't be reduced to 15 minutes on many routes.

Nevertheless, CATS officials say some promises will be kept, including the following:

- GPS tracking
- New bus shelters
- More bus routes
- Three new transfer centers

Together Baton Rouge and BRAC, the Baton Rouge Area Chamber, both said during the tax election that they would be holding CATS' feet to the fire if they didn't fulfill their promises, but it is unclear what power they have to do so.

Four Vie to Become CEO of East Baton Rouge

Mayor-President Will Lead Parish

BATON ROUGE — In a four-way race for Mayor-President on Nov. 6, incumbent Kip Holden, who is seeking a third term, is the clear favorite but he still has his work cut out for himself.

The wild cards in the race are

- The parish's exploding murder rate
- Whether Holden can hold at least 25 percent of white voters
- Whether a large turnout for President Obama will push Holden over the top
- Whether Mayor Pro-Tem Mike Walker, the Republican nominee, can rally voters in South Baton Rouge, Central, and Zachary to his cause in large enough numbers
- Whether independent candidates Gordon Mese and Steve Myers can draw off enough votes from Holden and Walker to force a run-off election on Dec. 8.

Mayor-President Kip Holden, a Democrat, is touting Baton Rouge's designation by one national organization as the No. 1 place in America to start a new business.

Mayor Pro-Tem Mike Walker is citing another No. 1 designation for the city — America's murder capital or close to it with a record-breaking 100 murders likely before year's end.

"We can't be America's 'Next Great City,' as the Mayor is fond of saying, with a murder rate that goes through the ceiling," Walker said. His top issue is crime and

Mayor Kip Holden

Steve Myers
Mayor-President

Mike Walker
Mayor-President

getting violent crime under control. Walker said he plans to make Baton Rouge such an inhospitable place for criminals that they will leave the parish.

Walker, who opposed the recent CATS tax and the effort to "roll forward" property taxes, has pledged to oppose new taxes.

Local businessman Gordon Mese, who owns Garden District Nursery, said the key to making Baton Rouge a better place to live is reforming the Unified Development Code (UDC), which he believes is holding the city back.

Attorney Steve Myers, also an independent, is running on a conservative, or somewhat libertarian platform, that includes cutting the size and cost of parish government. He too has problems with the UDC, especially as it relates to rental property.

Myers is opposed to new or increased taxes. He said he wants to hold government to what he sees as its proper purposes — police, fire, roads, drainage, and sewer.

Holden was a radio newsman before entering politics. He served on the Metro Council and as member of the Louisiana House of Representatives before being elected Mayor-President in 2004.

He has said that the Green Light traffic improvement program has been one of his most important achievements.

Mayor Pro-Tem Mike Walker began his service in local government when Mayor-President Woody Dumas named Walker as the parish's Chief Administrative Officer at the age of 23. After four years, he became Administrative Coordinator for the Clerk of Court's office. He built a real estate business before being elected to the Metro Council in 2000.

Walker has been endorsed by the Louisiana Republican Party and the Republican Party of East Baton Rouge Parish. Holden has been endorsed by the Democratic Party of East Baton Rouge Parish.

The parish is considered a battleground. Popular Gov. Bobby Jindal only carried it with 50.9 percent in 2011 on his way to a landslide victory in the rest of the state.

Mese Offers Different View of Mayor's Job

4th and Final Story on Candidates for Mayor-President

BATON ROUGE — Gordon Mese, owner of Garden District Nursery on Government Street, says he is running for Mayor-President not because he wants to but because he feels he has to, in order to create a more livable city.

He says his role model is Thomas Jefferson and other founding fathers. "I was born on George Washington's birthday, and I've always felt a connection with him and our founders."

"I've travelled the world and been exposed to many cultures and ideas. I was educated in urban and regional planning and have seen what works and what doesn't. I come from a big Catholic family. We have lived on the same land here on Government Street since 1929. I'm committed to this community and I'm not going anywhere," he said.

"Government Street is where Baton Rouge collides. It's where black meets white, north meets south, and commercial meets residential. It's the only real urban street in the parish."

"Career politicians are more interested in keeping their jobs and they don't have the courage to take risks, but we have to for future generations."

Mese says he knows a lot about the crime problem. "I've been stabbed six times and experienced more than 200 burglaries. But a police state is not the answer. We have to work on redevelopment and changing the environment. We need to use our resources in creative ways and get police back in the neighborhoods on foot. If I'm elected, I'll be on the streets because that's where it all happens."

Mese said he believes he has a chance to move into the Dec. 8 runoff for Mayor-President. "Kip Holden got elected by crossing all racial and party lines. In order to beat him, you have to do the same thing. I'm the only candidate who has the chance to do that."

He said, "The two 'major' candidates are pulling out of the debates," and he sees that as a sign they are losing support.

Mese, who is not affiliated with a party, said he sees a great future for Baton Rouge if it makes the changes he has in mind.

BATON ROUGE — Eight candidates are seeking a seat on the Louisiana Supreme Court in the Nov. 6 election, including four Court of Appeal judges, two District Court judges, and two local attorneys. The election will fill a vacancy on the court caused by an impending resignation of Chief Justice Kitty Kimball.

Judge John M. Guidry is considered the leading Democrat, but many attorneys believe the top Republican vote-getter in the Nov. 6 primary will be the eventual winner in the Dec. 8 runoff. However, some Republican leaders are concerned that the large number of Republican candidates could so split the Republican vote in the primary that two Democrats — Guidry and Baton Rouge attorney Mary Olive Pierson — could slip into the runoff together.

The Republican Party of East Baton Rouge Parish has endorsed Court of Appeal Judge Toni Higginbotham and District Judge Tim Kelley. The eight candidates are:

The Republicans

• Court of Appeal Judge Toni Higginbotham. Conservative Republican; long-time Republican activist with seven years practicing law, 14 years as Juvenile Court judge, and two years as judge of the Court of Appeal. Resides in South Baton Rouge.

• Court of Appeal Judge Jeff Hughes. Conservative Republican with 12 years as practicing attorney, 14 years as District Judge, and eight years on the Court of Appeal. Resides in Livingston Parish.

• District Judge Tim Kelley. Conservative Republican with 21 years practicing law and eight years as District Judge. Resides in South Baton Rouge.

• District Judge Bill Morvant. Conservative Republican with 11 years as a practicing attorney and 15 years as District Judge. Resides in South Baton Rouge.

• Court of Appeal Judge Duke Welch. Conservative Republican who served in the U.S. Air Force. He served on the Baker City Council, practiced law for 15 years, served as District Judge for nine years, and has served for eight years on the Court of Appeal. Resides in Zachary area.

The Democrats

• Court of Appeal Judge John Michael Guidry. Moderate Democrat. He served in Louisiana House and Louisiana Senate, practiced law for 10 years, and has served for 15 years on Court of Appeal. He resides in Baton Rouge.

• Mary Olive Pierson. Democrat. She has practiced law for 42 years representing a wide variety of clients but is well known for high profile cases including multi-million dollar civil cases and white collar criminal cases. Served on the City-Parish Council. Resides in South Baton Rouge.

The Independent

• Jeffry Sanford. Independent. He has practiced law for 21 years and has a wide-ranging practice that includes multi-million civil cases, international law, professional sports, and many others.

Why the Election Matters. The Louisiana Supreme Court has three conservative justices, three liberal justices, and one who can tilt either way, depending on the issue. The election of a Republican to this seat would move the court in a more conservative direction because Chief Justice Kimball is considered more liberal.

Notes on the Race.

• The primary election is Nov. 6, and the runoff is Dec. 8. All of the six sitting judges seeking the post are considered capable and well qualified.

• Court of Appeal Judge John Michael Guidry is viewed as the candidate most likely to run first in the primary. He is considered moderate. He enjoyed the support of LABI when he ran for the Court of Appeal and was opposed by former Sen. Cleo Fields.

• Democrat attorney Mary Olive Pierson has an outside chance of making the runoff.

• District Judge Bill Morvant secured the coveted LABI endorsement and is expected to be well funded, which could provide him with a strong media presence in the final weeks.

• Court of Appeal Judge Toni Higginbotham and District Judge Tim

Kelley received a lot of media exposure in their campaigns for the Court of Appeal two years ago, and this name recognition is relatively fresh.

• Court of Appeal Judge Jeff Hughes is the only candidate from Livingston Parish, which gives him a block of voters in the primary.

• Court of Appeal Judge Duke Welch is the only candidate from the north part of the parish, and he should be well funded by trial lawyers.

• The largest percentage of Republican voters is found in South Baton Rouge.

Commission Regulates Utility Rates in Louisiana Hot Race for Public Service Commission

BATON ROUGE — Three Republicans, a Democrat, and an Independent are seeking election to the Louisiana Public Service Commission in the Nov. 6 election.

The winner will fill the seat of Baton Rouge attorney Jimmy Field, who did not seek reelection.

The Public Service Commission is considered one of the more powerful elected bodies in the state, because it regulates public utilities and public transportation in the State of Louisiana.

On Tuesday, the Republican Party of East Baton Rouge Parish announced its endorsement of former Lt. Gov. Scott Angelle of Breaux Bridge for the post.

The candidates are:

• Scott Angelle, Republican, Breaux Bridge, who is a small businessman, former Parish President of St. Martin Parish and former Secretary of the Louisiana Department of Natural Resources. After the election of then-Lt. Gov. Mitch Landrieu as Mayor of New Orleans, he was appointed by Gov. Bobby Jindal to serve as interim lieutenant governor until Jay Dardenne was elected to the post in a special election. He describes himself as “a fighter for the hardworking men and women who farm our land, harvest our seafood, and produce the energy that fuels our nation.” He led the effort to dedicate oil revenues to finance the coastal restoration and hurricane protection plan.

• Greg Gaubert, No Party, Thibodaux, is the owner and manager of the Carmel Inn in Thibodaux. He serves as President of L. F. Gaubert & Co. Inc. for 23 years.

• Sarah Holliday, Republican, Baton Rouge, who is a Judicial Assistant for the 19th Judicial District Court. She formerly served as Correctional Program Specialist at the Sheriff’s office and as a Master Level Counselor at the Louisiana Department of Health and Hospitals. She describes herself as “A community activist to bring changes to all mankind to submit to ethical behavior and core values such as integrity, respect, trust, stability, community involvement, honesty, empathy and fairness in daily activities. To reduce inequality, racism, political abuse, injustices, discrimination, lack of diversity and unfair wages.”

• State Rep. Erich Ponti, Republican, Baton Rouge, who has been a contractor for 20 years, represents Baton Rouge in the Louisiana House of Representatives, where he served as Chairman of the House Committee on Labor & Industrial Relations and Chairman of the House Commerce Committee. He said, “I am a free market conservative who believes that competition leads to lower rates and better service when the playing field is level.”

• Forest Wright, Democrat, New Orleans, is an energy policy professional who has been developing business strategies and regulatory policies for a sustainable energy future — first for Shell International Exploration and Production Company and more recently with The Alliance for Affordable Energy. Forest is a graduate of Tulane University, where he studied sustainable development.

Circuit Court of Appeal Hears Civil, Criminal Matters

Two Challenge McDonald for Appeal Court

BATON ROUGE — Judge Mike McDonald, who represents East Baton Rouge Parish on the First Circuit Court of Appeal is being challenged by two opponents in the Nov. 6 election.

McDonald has been endorsed by the Republican Party of East Baton Rouge Parish.

The candidates in the election are:

- Attorney Gideon Carter III, a Democrat who has been endorsed by the Democratic Party of East Baton Rouge Parish. Carter has practiced law for 25 years, including Civil Rights, civil litigation, state and federal criminal law, commercial law, succession and estate representation, financial/estate/retirement planning, insurance and personal injury litigation, family law, property law and worker's compensation. He has also been involved in a number of high profile school desegregation cases, including those in East Baton Rouge Parish, Jefferson Parish, St. John the Baptist, St. Martin, Tangipahoa, and Pointe Coupee parishes.

- Circuit Court of Appeal Judge Mike McDonald who is the incumbent in the race. A veteran of the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War, McDonald retired as a Captain. He served as an Assistant District Attorney before being elected District Judge for East Baton Rouge Parish, a position he held for 16 years, before being elected to the Court of Appeal in 2003. He has served on the bench for nearly 26 years. He earned B.S. and law degrees from LSU. McDonald said, "I have been honored to serve as a judge for the past 26 years. The law and our Constitution have guided my rulings and will continue to do so as long as the voters allow me to serve them on the Court of Appeal."

- District Judge Trudy White, a Republican, earned a B.S. degree in business management from Howard University and a law degree from LSU. She served as General Counsel for the Louisiana Department of Revenue and executive director of the Louis A. Martinet Society's Pro Bono Program. She served in the administrations of Gov. Edwin Edwards and Buddy Roemer. Before being elected as District Judge, she served as City Judge for Baton Rouge.

In Race for City Constable, It's Brown vs. Jones

BATON ROUGE — City Constable Reginald Brown is seeking reelection in the Nov. 6 election but faces a challenger in Alester Jones. Brown has been endorsed by the Democratic Party and Jones by the Republican Party.

Constable Reginald Brown served with the East Baton Rouge Parish Sheriff's office for 25 years before retiring. He was elected City Constable in 2000. A graduate of Southern University, he was honored with the Golden Deeds Awards, one of the highest awards

Five Compete for Two City Judgeships

BATON ROUGE — Baton Rouge has five City Judges. Two of them are elected from a predominantly black subdistrict in the northern part of the city, and three are elected from a predominantly white subdistrict in the southern and eastern part of the city.

The two judges from the northern subdistrict — Judges Yvette M. Alexander and Kelli Terrell Temple — were unopposed, as was Judge Laura Davis from the southern subdistrict.

Two City Judges — Suzan Ponder and Alex “Brick” Wall — face opposition in the Nov. 6 election.

City Judge Alex Wall’s seat on the City Court is designated as Division C. The candidates for that judgeship are:

- Attorney Joel Porter, Democrat, who is an attorney and former pastor. He has been endorsed by the Democratic Party of East Baton Rouge Parish. Porter said he decided to run after a federal investigation uncovered corruption in Baton Rouge City Court, which resulted in the conviction of the City Prosecutor and several other persons.

- Judge Alex “Brick” Wall, Democrat, who has served as City Court Judge since 1999. He is a graduate of Catholic High and the LSU Law School and has practiced law for 26 years. He has been endorsed by the Democratic Party of East Baton Rouge Parish.

City Judge Suzan Ponder’s seat is designated as Division E. The candidates are:

- Attorney Tiffany Foxworth, Democrat, who recently narrowly lost a runoff election for the Louisiana House of Representatives. She served as a nurse in the U.S. Army and has practiced law before state and federal courts in Louisiana.

- Attorney Cliff Ivey, Republican, who graduated from LSU Law

School and has served as a public schoolteacher, Baton Rouge city policeman and Sheriff’s deputy. He is co-owner of Couyons Cajun BBQ.

- Judge Suzan Ponder, Republican, who has served as City Court Judge for 19 years. She practiced law for 10 years and served as an Assistant District Attorney for five years before being elected Judge. She has been endorsed by the Republican Party of East Baton Rouge Parish. She is married and has two children.

Rep. Bill Cassidy Has Two Challengers

BATON ROUGE — Congressman Bill Cassidy, a Baton Rouge physician, is seeking election to his third term in the United States Congress in the Nov. 6 election.

He faces opposition from Libertarian and independent candidates.

Cassidy, a former emergency room physician and State Senator, is a member of the House Committee on Energy and Commerce.

Rufus Craig, the Libertarian candidate, is a Baton Rouge attorney who wants to end America’s tax and spend policies and adopt a pay-go plan.

The independent, Richard Torregano, favors a flat tax. He believes both Democrats and Republicans are controlled by special interests.

Two SBR Metro Council Seats at Stake

Smokie Bourgeois
Metro District 12

Rose Carey
Metro District 12

John Delgado
Metro District 12

Joel Boé
Metro District 9

Ted Rush
Metro District 9

BATON ROUGE — South Baton Rouge voters have two Metro Council seats to fill, and incumbents face challengers in both districts.

In Metro Council District 9, incumbent Councilman Joel Boé is opposed by fellow Republican Ted Rush.

In Metro Council District 12, incumbent Councilman Smokie Bourgeois, a Republican, has two opponents — Democrat Rose Carey and Republican John Delgado.

Here is more information on the candidates:

Metro Council District 9

• Councilman Joel Boé is completing his first term on the Metro Council. He is a graduate of LSU in Construction Management and also earned an Executive MBA from LSU. He is a Project Manager with Performance Contractors, Inc. He and his wife have four children. His goals are to fight crime, improve fiscal responsibility in parish government, and complete the Green Light plan.

• Ted Rush is a self-employed contractor in the sand and gravel business and owner of Rush Industries. He said he is running to provide ordinary citizens a voice in parish government. He said he is angry that Councilman Boé passed an ordinance directed at him over the construction of a pond on his property.

Metro Council District 12

• Councilman Smokie Bourgeois is completing his first term as a member of the Metro Council. A graduate of Catholic High who attended LSU, he is the owner of three George's Restaurants.

Known for his plain talk and willingness to take on the Mayor-President, downtown interests, and the Rouzan project, Bourgeois said, "The most enjoyable and rewarding thing about being a councilman is being able to help people with their problems in a way that is the most beneficial for them." Bourgeois has been endorsed for reelection by the Republican Party of East Baton Rouge Parish.

• Rose Carey, who is retired, has been endorsed by the Democratic Party of East Baton Rouge Parish. She said she wants to fight crime, promote education, and be a unifying force.

• Attorney John Delgado graduated from Catholic High and LSU before earning his law degree at Tulane University. He has practiced law for 12 years and has been elected to the House of Delegates of the Louisiana State Bar Association. Delgado, who is endorsed by the Baton Rouge Police Union, said he wants to establish a Civil Enforcement Unit for the Baton Rouge Police Department to execute asset forfeiture and seize drug money and vehicles. He favors neighborhood policing and concentrating on small problems such as panhandling and vandalism.

Amendment on Gun Rights at Center Stage

BATON ROUGE — Supporters of the Right to Keep and Bear Arms find themselves at odds over Amendment No. 2 on the Nov. 6 ballot.

The Right to Keep and Bear Arms provision of the current Louisiana Constitution has been hailed as the strongest protection of gun rights in the nation. But the National Rifle Association has proposed amending the current Constitution to include the concept of "strict scrutiny," which would subject all gun restrictions to greater scrutiny by the courts. On the other hand, supporters of the current Constitution say the proposed language actually authorizes new regulations which are currently prohibited. The current Constitution allows only one type of regulation — restrictions on carrying concealed weapons.

Constable for J. P. Court

Carey Jenkins
Ward 3

Ron Reynolds
Ward 3

BATON ROUGE — The Justice of the Peace Court in Ward 3, District 2 has found itself getting unexpected attention as two Republicans wage a spirited campaign for the Constable's job in the court.

The candidates are:

• Carey Jenkins, who served as United States Marshal for eight years. He was appointed by President George Bush. He served as Deputy U.S. Marshal for 15 years. He also served in the East Baton Rouge Sheriff's Office for seven years. After retiring from the U.S. Marshal Service in 2010, he served as the liaison for the Sheriff's office to the D. A.'s Office.

• Ron Reynolds has resided in East Baton Rouge Parish for 40 years and served in law enforcement for 27 years. He earned his B.S. in criminal justice from LSU. He is married and has four-year-old.

The mission of the Ward 3, District 2 Constable's Office is to execute the orders of the Justice of the Peace, such as civil mandates, judgments, seizures, evictions and civil subpoenas.

Judge Tim
KELLEY
Louisiana Supreme Court

#27

My past 15 years of experience as your District Court Judge, and the types of issues over which I have presided, is exactly what will enable me to serve on the Louisiana Supreme Court. Our Justices must and do hear and decide on all of these kinds of issues. These are difficult times, not only in Louisiana but across America. I firmly believe our courts are in place not to make new laws, but to fairly and consistently apply those that are on the books. That is what I do each and every day in District Court. It is precisely what I will do if elected to the Louisiana Supreme Court.

I am in this race for the Louisiana Supreme Court, not because I am the best politically connected candidate, but because I believe that I am the best qualified. I will work hard over the next two months to prove that to the voters and families of our District 5. On the Louisiana Supreme Court, the last stop for most cases in Louisiana, qualifications and hard work do matter.

Stomping Grapes at Italian Festival

Everybody Claims He's Part Italian for BR Columbus Day

BATON ROUGE — More than 1,000 Baton Rouge residents of Italian heritage — along with many others with names like Boudreaux, Smith, and Blackwell who “claimed” to be Italian — flooded into the Atrium at the Belle of Baton Rouge for the annual American-Italian festival.

Attendees, including Mayor-President Kip Holden, who didn't quite pass for Italian, enjoyed Italian food, celebrated Italian traditions, danced to Italian music, practiced rolling a bocce ball, learned Basic Italian, and studied the genealogy of Italian families in the Baton Rouge area, depending on their interests.

The highlight of the event was the presentation of this year's Maids of the Greater Baton Rouge American-Italian Festival, 33 young ladies, aged 3 through 18.
